Own end-to-end product features for autonomous AI agents that run business functions, working directly with founders and engineers to define what gets built and why.

ABOUT THE ROLE

Join a stealth-mode startup building autonomous AI agents that run entire business functions, not chatbots or copilots, but AI that actually does things. You'll own meaningful product areas from discovery to launch, making critical decisions about AI behavior, decision authority, and failure modes. This is a high-impact role for someone early in their PM career who wants to grow by solving hard, ambiguous problems on cutting-edge AI products with direct customer impact.

WHAT YOU'LL NEED

- 1-3 years in Product Management, Associate PM, or Business Analyst role
- Demonstrated ability to break down ambiguous, complex problems into structured, actionable pieces
- First-principles thinking, strip problems to fundamental truths, question assumptions, build from core needs
- Strong written communication skills, write clear PRDs with acceptance criteria and success metrics
- Data-informed decision making, use metrics and evidence, not gut-feel
- Genuine curiosity about AI/LLMs with hands-on usage experience

NICE TO HAVE

- Built or shipped an AI/ML feature in a previous role
- Technical background, can read code, understand APIs
- Experience with B2B SaaS or enterprise products
- Worked in a startup or high-growth environment
- Domain knowledge in sales, HR, finance, or content workflows
